UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY FOR CONSULTANTS

“Working for SIMUL8 is a unique opportunity for Consultants with involvement in all stages, from writing proposals to the delivery of the project. Projects come from a variety of sectors and are wide in scope-from designing new facilities and processes to improving the performance of existing ones.”

Sander Vermeulen

CAREER DEVELOPMENT

“Working at SIMUL8 has allowed me to take my career in the direction I wanted. I now have the business skills, acumen and confidence that I longed for as a student and wondered how I would ever gain.”

Kenneth Doole

I'M PART OF A TEAM

“SIMUL8 have a strong focus on team building, we have monthly days out and annual away days – not to mention our company Wii!”

Jen Bruce

THE ROLE

We are really busy with clients needing our consulting services – so we are looking for people to join our consulting team. Ideally you will have some initial experience since graduating and/or you will have an MSc in OR/MS from one of the universities who include many practical assignments in the classes. We would like you to hit the ground running – but we will also give you plenty of training and mentoring and help to grow your consulting skills.

Our consulting work focuses on solving customer problems – we are not a “simulation model building shop”! – we only take on projects if a customer wants to work with us to solve their problem and wants us immersed in their team to help them improve their business. The vast majority of our work is simulation related because that is where our reputation has grown. So if you enjoyed the simulation part of your OR/MS degree – this may well be the role for you. Our projects are often short (from less than 1 day up to 4 or 6 weeks) – so you get lots of variability and experience from many different industries.

Our consulting team also does some training of SIMUL8 users as it's a great way to get to know customers and their processes (and how they use what we offer to them / how we can help our customers more).

You will also have the opportunity to get involved in other aspects of our company. There is really no limit in terms of how far you can rise and how much you can move in the company if you have the desire and drive to broaden your skills.

CANDIDATE PROFILE

- Confident, social manner with exceptional verbal and written communication skills
- A polished presenter
- A passion for business, career success and meeting challenging client goals
- Strong moral values and a ‘customer comes first’ approach to work
- An MSc/MA in Operational research / Management Science or a 1st class honours

WHAT DO WE OFFER?

An opportunity to make your mark within a rapidly growing company. Our company structure makes all employees responsible for driving and creating the company strategy, with everyone's ideas / views encouraged and recognised.

You will receive an excellent salary and bonus scheme, generous holiday entitlement and other benefits over and above the statutory minimum. As an IIP company there is real opportunity for you to fast track your personal development, with training and support provided. Based in our Glasgow city centre HQ, we offer flexible working patterns, including working from home, and many other great benefits...
