

Senior Software Developer Based in Glasgow HQ

Salary: £30K+ (DOE) + benefits

Why SIMUL8 Corporation?

Huge impact. The world's biggest organizations rely on our software. Our customers use our simulation technology to save lives in Healthcare, optimize Manufacturing plants, contribute to advances in Aerospace and so much more. You'll be designing, building, and shipping features that they'll love and enable global change.

Independence. We're hiring great people and letting them do what they do best. We'll support you with lots of mentoring and training, but there's no handholding or micromanaging.

Part of a great company. We've grown quickly from a start up to become one of the global power houses of process simulation. But we've kept our start-up vibe, culture, innovative enthusiasm and agility. At SIMUL8 Corporation every person counts and every person makes a difference.

What we offer you

- Competitive salary DOE, plus bonus package.
- 33 days holiday a year, increasing over time, option to buy and sell days.
- Autonomy in your work & flexible working hours.
- Commitment to your personal training and development, both technical and soft skills.
- Commitment to provide you opportunities and resources to work with current and emerging technologies.
- Contributory Pension

What will you do?

- Deliver technically challenging projects.
- Help shape the future of our products and our company.
- Mentor other developers to give them a chance to shine.

About you

To be part of our team you must be:

Passionate about technology. Technology never stops and neither do we. In a competitive market, we need to keep our edge, constantly evaluating the right technologies that help us deliver for our customers. You must be comfortable doing what no-one else has done before.

Customer-focused. You will help us build and evolve quality products that are loved by users worldwide. And you will be comfortable talking to non-technical users to help understand their needs and deliver software to make them more productive.

A polyglot developer. No technology is the right fit for everything, so you must be comfortable with learning and applying technology across the full stack.

Pro-active and driven. Everyone makes a difference to the company. You care about the team, and continual improvement in yourself and others.

What are we looking for?

- 3 years of relevant industry experience
- Ability to shape and deliver technically challenging solutions
- C# and Web development experience
- Database experience
- Agile developer, who can demonstrate continual improvement in themselves and their work

And has experience of at least 3 of the following:

- Desktop development
