

Product Developer

SIMUL8

📍 Glasgow (Remote & office based working available)

£ Competitive salary

At Simul8 we transform the way people make decisions. We're looking for a developer to join our product team who can bring the skills to help drive forward the innovation of our simulation software. You'll be part of a team who designs, builds, and ships features to customers such as Nike, Ford, Cisco and the NHS who use our platform to radically improve their processes.

Life at Simul8 is fast-paced but rewarding – every day our users make a difference. In the last 6 months we have helped plan the Nightingale emergency hospitals, launch effective drive through testing facilities and prepare many businesses for going back to work safely. There has never been a more critical time for our users to make informed decisions. Are you ready to help them?

About us

Simul8 is the fastest, most intuitive and effective simulation software on the market. The team lives and breathes simulation and works with our global community of users to continuously evolve the Simul8 platform. We have been breaking boundaries in the industry for over 25 years and have no intention of stopping, with a number of exciting changes happening soon. We pride ourselves on being refreshingly easy to deal with - down to earth, friendly, open, honest and transparent. We really listen, really pay attention and really care about our users and our team. This is a great opportunity to work in the exciting world of technology and develop your career.

Who we're looking for

A self-starter. You must be driven, focussed and pro-active to be as personally effective as possible. We will support you of course, but we don't do micromanagement. We will expect you to be completely self-driven, full of initiative and ideas to help drive the development of our product forward.

User driven. Everything starts and ends with our users, and creating the best possible experience for them. If you don't get excited by what we do as an organization and understand how important our software is to our users, this is the wrong place for you.

Passionate about technology. Technology never stops and neither do we. In a competitive market, we need to keep our edge, constantly evaluating the right technologies that help us deliver for our customers. You must be comfortable doing what no-one else has done before.

What we offer

At Simul8 we love what we do and we're serious about simulation - but we don't take ourselves too seriously. We have nurtured a genuine family feel within the Simul8 team and we like to balance our hard work with time to unplug, have fun and make time for ourselves and our loved ones. We do everything we can to make work a pleasure such as providing a budget for your home office set up, a city centre hub for collaborating, regular social events and regular opportunities to develop your career and learn new skills.

We also offer

- Competitive salary and bonus scheme
- Remote and flexible working options
- Autonomous work environment
- Company pension scheme
- Family friendly environment including child care voucher scheme
- 31 days holiday a year – increases to 33 days after 3 years of service
